

ABSTRACT

Transgenic non-human animals with expanded mature B cell and plasma cell populations are described, as well as methods of using the transgenic non-human animals to screen for pharmaceutically active agents and to produce targeted antibodies.